

Erin Horstmeyer has been named Volunteer of the Year!

Children's Care Hospital & School has named Erin Horstmeyer of Sioux Falls as their Volunteer of the Year. Erin worked countless hours helping to organize the 2009 Mall Walk and was the top fundraiser with Sam's Team, named for her son, a day student at Children's Care. She has also stepped forward to be the chairperson of the 2010 Mall Walk.

Erin does many projects for the education department, both in and out of the classroom. She also works with donors for the Children's Care Foundation. Being a parent of a child with special needs, she knows exactly how the generosity of individuals helps children achieve their fullest potential, and she does an excellent job of conveying that gratitude to donors with her personal touch in thanking them. In the past year, Erin has put in over 200 hours of volunteer time.

Children's Care Hospital & School serves over 2600 children with special needs from birth to age 21 each year from South Dakota and surrounding states. Services include education, therapies, behavioral services, and medical care, offered through inpatient, outpatient, outreach, and day school programs. Children's Care is a private, non-profit organization with centers in Sioux Falls and Rapid City.
